YACHTS RACING TO NEWPORT

SIXTEEN START IN NEW YORK YACHT CLUB EVENT.

wind Very Light at the Start and Ahead -Altair Leads Small Sloops and Aurera Ahead of Istalena—Atlantic Doing Well in Bace for Auxiliaries.

Sixteen vachts of the New York Yacht Club are racing to Newport. They started yesterday afternoon in a light wind from east by north from a line off Matinnecock Point and they are to finish at Brenton's Reef lightship, the grim old vessel that marks the entrance to Newport harbor. Ill miles away. The course for nearly the whole distance is east by north, so if the wind holds true the yachts will have it on end nearly all the way. These yachts range in size from the 38 rater Dorello, which is a modern, up to date yacht and very speedy, to the three masted auxiliary ner Atlantic, winner of the ocean race for the Kaiser's cup. In the fleet are seven sloops, one yawl, four schooners and four auxiliaries.

This race is a new idea in the New York Yacht Club. For some years the regattas that have been sailed at this end of the Sound have been very unsatisfactory. The winds on the Sound off Glen Cove have been altry and few yachtsmen have cared to take was hoped would be attractive to owners of large vessels. The programme included was hoped would be attractive to owners of large vessels. The programme included two races through the Sound, one to Newport and one back from Newport, while off Newport the annual regatta is to be sailed. To make things even more attractive the Newport Yacht Racing Association arranged for a regatta, which is to be sailed to-morrow, but even with all these attractions the owners of yachts have not been liberal with their entries and several yachts that were expected to take part were absent.

Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James offered a cup for a race for auxillaries. There are several of this class that couldn ave started, and among them are H. W. Putnam, Jr.'s, Alcyone, W. Harry Brown's Visitor II., and James Laughlin, Jr.'s, Ariadne, but they were absentees. The schooner Queen, owned by J. Rogers Maxwell, was entered. That yacht is now fitting out but could not get ready on time. The old cup defender Vigilant was entered, but she did not show up at the starting line, and the 65 footer Winsome was also an absentee. It was expected that some of the 30 footers would take part in the races, but the owners of those yachts evidently preferred racing at this end of the Sound.

Although the entry list is not large, especially when it is considered that the New York Yacht Club has a fleet of 606 vessels, it shows an improvement over recent years. The regatta committee, H. de B. Parsons, Ernest E. Lorillard and Walter C. Kerr, have worked hard to make these races a success and they hope that there will be some yachts in Newport harbor to make the annual regatta on Saturday attractive.

The committee was on board the steam of large vensels. The programme included two roots of worth the Senand regatts as to be sailed to more than the programme that the property of the senand regatts as to be sailed to more than the programme that the property of the senand regatts as to be sailed to more than the programme than the property of the senand regatts which is to be sailed to-morrow, for a regatts, which is to be sailed to-morrow, for a regatts, which is to be sailed to-morrow, for a regatts, which is to be sailed to-morrow, for a regatts, which is to be sailed to-morrow, for a regatts, which is to be sailed to-morrow, for a regatts, which is to be sailed to-morrow, for a regatts, which is to be sailed to-morrow, for a regatts, which is to be sailed to-morrow, for a regatts, which is to be sailed to-morrow, for the large that the sail to the sail that the property of the large that the sail that t absent. The Aurora, salled by w. Butler Puncan, Jr., and with Stuyvesant Wainwright on board, got the best of the start, leading the Istalena by about six seconds. The Istalena took the leeward end of the line and found a little more wind there, so that she soon worked to the front and kept well out in the Sound, G. M. Pynchon, her owner, watching carefully for any signs of better wind. This lead did not last long, for Aurora soon passed the Istalena and when off Lloyd' Nask Aurora was leading the Istalena by about half a mile.

Rear Commodore Dallas B. Pratt's Sea Fox led the schooners across the line. L. J. Callanan's Eclipse, fresh from her fine race for the Cape May cup, was next, and then followed Robert P. Doremus's Lasca and Cleveland H. Dodge's Cogona. These are four fine vessels and should make a good contest. The Sea Fox kept her lead and worked along very nicely in the light wind. The auxiliaries were started at the same time as the schooners, but these boats want lots of wind to make them work well and under the conditions that prevailed they were slow and sluggish. The Atlantic made the best showing. She had all her working canvas set and made a very pretty picture as she went across the line at 2:57 o'clock, or 17 minutes after the signal. Commodore James's brig rigged yacht Aloha was next at 3:36. On board were Commodore and Mrs. James, Fleet Captain Franklin A. Plummer and Mrs. Ernest E. Lorillard. N. L. McCready's schooner rigged yacht Enchantress was next at 3:34. The Atlantic took the starboard tack and stood well over to the north shore before she came about, while the Aloha made a short hitch on the port tack in toward Long Island and then stood out on the starboard tack.

or westerly, tide about 5 o clock, and then, as the wind was still very light, made little headway.

The race is going to be a long one. The yachts had scattered by sundown and the yachtsmen were in for a long, tedious night. They would have to be watching every moment and unless the wind freshens the races will be tiresome for all.

The course takes them through the Sound, passing to the south of Faulkner's Island, and it is expected that the leaders will reach Newport some time this morning, but to sail 111 miles under such conditions as prevailed will take a long time.

To-morrow there will be the regatta of the Newport Yacht Racing Association. The start will be made from the Brenton's Reef lightship and the courses will take the races to the Vineyard Sound and Hen and Chickens lightships. The annual regatta of the cith will be sailed on Saturday. The start will again be from the Brenton's Reef lightship and the course will be around Block Island. In this regatta the Bennett regatta cups will be sailed for. One cup is for schooners and one for sloops and yawls. It is possible that if the wind freshens to-day some other yachts will go on to take part in this regatta.

The Giants finished their stay in Philadelphia yesterday, winning their game and coming away with three victories out of four games. They are all primed to go against the Pittsburgs to-day. The Pitts-burgs are primed too, beating the Chicagos handily yesterday. That helped the Giants so far as second place is concerned. The Brooklyns are the demon performers against the Bostons, smiting that humble aggregation twice yesterday. The results:

NEW YORK (N. L.), 3; PHILADELPHIA (N. L.), 1. PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—New York won the baseball contest, if such it can be called, by 3 to 1 to-day. The New Yorks did not have to hit to win, in fact they did not hit at all when they scored their three runs. All of those tallies came over in the sixth inning and every one was the direct result of a base on balls. In that session there were six Giants passed in a row, three runs being forced in. There's no telling how many more might have crossed the plate had not the remaining Giants taken a shot at the horsehide in an effort to sneak in a single or two to add to the gayety of the occasion. Doc Marshall was a nifty performer for the Brooklyns in the second game with his all around work. In the third inning the Doc opened fire with a single and scored on a sacrifice and Burch's hit. Burch stole third and kept on to the plate on a wild throw by Graham to catch him. Marshall started the merry-go-round in the seventh too. He banged out a hit, Rucker sacrificed, Burch drew four balls and the bases were peopled when Clement hit to Dahlen and Starr dropped Bill's throw. Hummel sent is two runs with a hit and on Alperman's dribble to Sweeney Clement beat the throw home.

The New York Americans played their last home game for a while yesterday, and being nothing if not consistent, were treated to their customary trimming. The Red Sox bore down on them like a wolf on the fold and brought the Highlanders' list of consecutive defeats up to six. However, the best of them have their troubles at times. The Detroits collided with another defeat—in Cleveland, and their lead has been reduced to slender proportions. The results:

BOSTON (A. L.), 9: NEW YORK (A. L.), 6.

The Bostons were passing through New York yesterday on their way West and thought they might as well stop off and beat the Highlanders between trains. They did. All the satisfaction the New Yorks derived from the game was the fact that they made more runs than they usually do, a negative satisfaction seeing that they didn't make enough. But beaten though we were the Sweeney which silenced Hooper at the plate.

A muff by Gessler and singles by Chase and Engle scored two Highlanders in the second half of the seventh. Gessler was a lucky man in the ninth. He hit a fair ball to Chase, who picked it up inside the line, but Sheridan said foul—just another of the numerous laughable decisions the New Yorks have been up against of late. Gessler took advantage of the life to double to left.

Such a dry humorist, this Sheridan. When Quinn and Kleinow went in the points in the ninth Facetious Jack, the King of the Wags, made his umpirical announcement thus: "Mr. Quinn and Mr. Kleinow and Kleinow went in the points in the ninth Facetious Jack, the King of the Wags, made his umpirical announcement thus: "Mr. Quinn and Mr. Kleinow." Maybe he was chuckling so hard over his sidesplitting, wheeze that he didn't see that Gessler's splash to Chase was fair. The score:

Sporting men as a rule still regard Ketchel as a phenomena pugilist and predict that if he takes proper care of himself and is absolutely fit when tand an excellent chance of winning. But Ketchel's showing with Papke will not be passed over lightly, even though some critics are inclined to throw the fight out of their calculations, just as horse flends treat erratic performances of racing thoroughbreds. The fact that both of Ketchel's hands were injured is sufficient reason why he did not stop Papke. The fight up to the twelfth round proved that Ketchel was easily the master, for Papke received a terrific walloping and was in much distress But with both hands crippled it was not at all strange that Ketchel's attack gradually became less dangerous, until Papke did not fear to take chances. Papke is a tough customer anyway. Ketchel is the only man that has ever defeated him, and yet Papke is the only pugilist that has ever put the Michigan Lion away. BELMONT ON RACING.

Before August Belmont sailed for Europe on the Lucania yesterday he discussed the racing situation here at some length. He declared that the sport would soon become more popular than ever before, even without open betting. He said that racing combined three principles, courage, stamina and the gambling spirit, but that gambling was the lowest stratum in the sport.

"The fact is," said Mr. Belmont, "racing was created by the betting spirit and not the betting spirit created by racing. Racing makes the thoroughbred possible and the breeding industry is a splendid occupation. If people are not able to bet on the races they will soon find something else."

Mr. Belmont will spend some time looking over the sport in England and France.

Tim Pippin's success was wholly due to clever riding by Grand, who kept his mount in check while Sir John Johnson, with 130 pounds, set a fast pace to the middle of the stretch. Then Grand, having saved Tim Pippin's speed and stamina for a final rush to the wire, came along swiftly and nailed the big horse on the post in 1:19. The Elkwood Park Stable's Etherial, 16 to 5, after a slow beginning ran a cracking good race and finished third, half a length back. The Newcsatle Stable's Royal Captive, 8 to 5 favorite, quit as usual when the crisis arrived.

Newceastle Stable's Royal Captive, 8 to 5 favorite, quit as usual when the crisis arrived.

H. P. Whitney's Greenvale, 9 to 5, won the infiexible, for two-year-olds, five and a half furlongs, on the grass. She made all the running attended by J. A. Bennet's Schoolmarm, 6 to 5, whom she beat by two lengths in 1:06 4-5. J. L. McGinnis's Charrie Hargrave, 3 to 1, was a poor third. R. Colston's Harry Grothe, a supposed good thing, had no speed at any stage.

In a driving finish A. L. Price's Superstition, 5 to 1, capture the Highlander Selling race, at a mile and a sixteenth, on the grass, by a nose from R. R. Mandelbaum's Monocle, 4 to 1, who bolted at the start and then ran a wonderful race. Blackford, 3 to 1, was third a length and a half back. Miss Catesby received an easy ride. The time was 1:46 2-5.

T. L. Watt's Uncas Chief, one of three favorites at 3 to 1, was successful in the Spring, for maiden two-year-olds, six furlongs, Futurity course. He closed in the last furlong and won going away by three lengths from S. C. Hildreth's Eddie Dugan, 3 to 1, who had three lengths over William Lakeland's Everett, also at threes. The race was run in 1:14. Three favorites won and E. Dugan rode three winners, his best work since the meeting opened. The attendance was about 6,600. The summaries:

Turf Notes.

The Coney Island Jockey Club announced yesterday that there will be an extra day of racing at the Bay next Monday. This means that there will be continuous sport without open dates at the Bay. Empire City and Saratoga, or until the first of September.

The stake book for the Empire City meeting, which begins next Wednesday, was issued yesterday and provides for a meeting of sixteen consecutive days until July 31.

Before the last race yesterday James F. Carron Mrs. L. A. Livingston, price private.

The Meddier cost Detective, who will start the Realization next Tuesday, worked a mile and five furlongs in 2:53.

At the sale of yearlings before the races at the Bay yesterday C. L. Harrison paid $2,300 for a brown colt by Broomstick—Lizze T. The Ones Stable bought several, including a filly by Stalwart—Manola Mason, for $700, a colt by Golderess of the sale of yearlings the substantial for $2,000 and a colt by Stalwart—Northumbria for $2,000 and a colt by Stalwart—Piseco for $1,00.

T. L. Watt paid $700 for a colt by Stalwart—Passion Flower. The bidding was lively and fairly good prices were realized.
